

LubSearch

LUBSearch is a restricted discovery tool that require a Lucat-id.

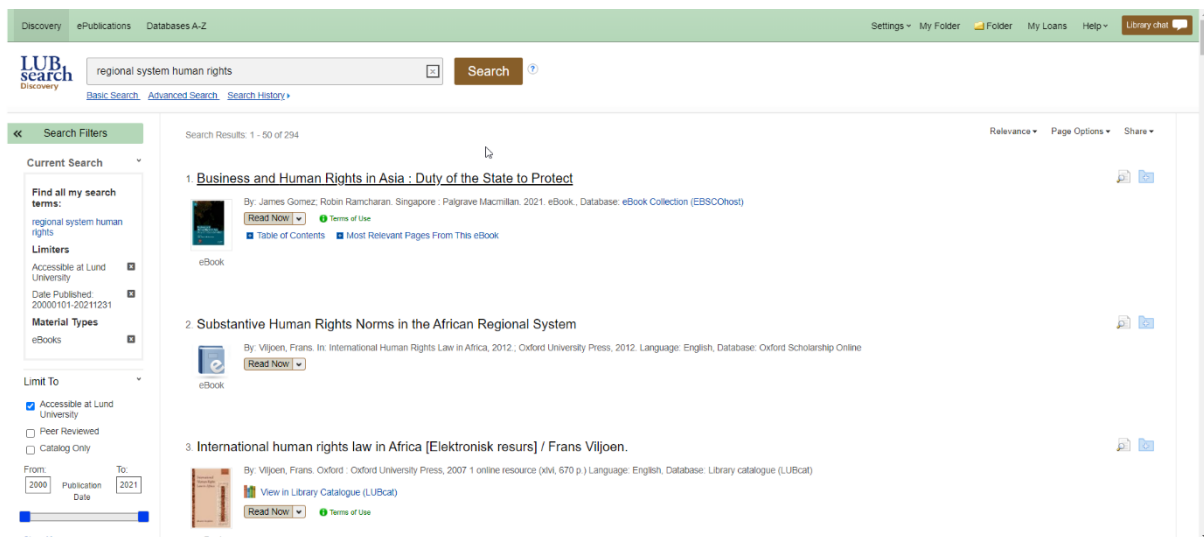

I recommend you to explore LUBSearch to familiarise yourself with all its possibilities that will facilitate your studies and writings.

Below follows one example on how to use LubSearch:

Type regional system human rights, in the search box.

To the left you can filter your search. For example, mark ebooks and set a timeline as a way to limit your search.

It can look like this:

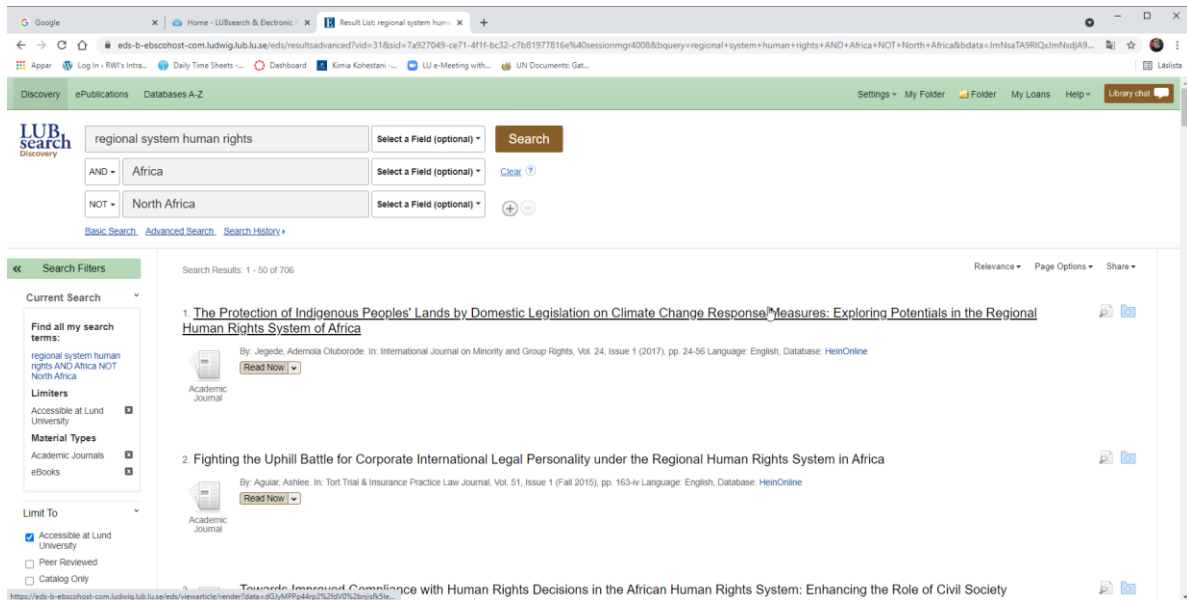

Open number 3 in the hit list. On the right hand side there are several options: “Save to folder”, “cite”, “export” etc.

Cite: Here you can choose different styles for citation; APA, Harvard...

Export your result into a reference manager, for example Zotero, by choosing a catalog where you would like to add the bibliographic information. (See the guide to Zotero)

To narrow your query, go to Advanced Search

I added AND Africa NOT North Africa and to the left I ticked books and journals, as seen below.

Good luck and if you have questions or struggle to make it work, do not hesitate to send me an email.

Best,

Lena Olsson, Librarian at the Raoul Wallenberg Library
