Fifth Montevideo Environmental Law Programme Regional Conference
Legal responses to combat the triple planetary crisis in Latin America and the Caribbean

25-26 September 2023
Panama City, Panama

Background

In March 2019, the United Nations Environment Assembly adopted the Fifth Montevideo Programme for the Development and Periodic Review of Environmental Law (Montevideo V). Montevideo V is a ten-year intergovernmental programme running from January 2020 to December 2029. The United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) is the secretariat of the programme. The objectives of Montevideo V include supporting the development and implementation of adequate and effective environmental legislation and legal frameworks to address environmental issues and the promotion of the role of environmental law in the context of effective environmental governance.

To effectively address the triple environmental crises of climate change, biodiversity loss, and pollution in Latin America and the Caribbean, multi-dimensional and innovative responses are required. Despite legal frameworks established to address environmental issues, environmental degradation continues, and climate change exacerbates these problems. The Latin American and Caribbean Environmental Law Conference aims to bring together regional and international experts to discuss solutions for effective environmental governance.

The Fifth Montevideo Programme Regional Conference in Latin America and the Caribbean builds on the success of previous conferences, seminars and trainings held in the region since the first edition of the Montevideo Programme five decades ago, gathering participants from academia, judiciary, governments, civil society, and the private sector to discuss environmental legal issues in the region.

Objectives

The conference will bring together regional and international experts to share knowledge, experiences, lessons learned, and best practices in environmental law in the context of the specific challenges that Latin American and Caribbean countries face to tackle the triple planetary crises.

Specifically, it seeks to:

1. Conduct the Latin American and Caribbean stakeholders' consultations on legal and policy solutions to combat climate change and biodiversity loss in the region.

2. Promote and advance the implementation of the right to a clean, healthy and sustainable environment in the region and the protection of human rights defenders in environmental matters in the region, considering the celebration of the Second Annual Forum on Environmental Human Rights Defenders.
3. Present the Second Global Report on Environmental Rule of Law and analyze recent global developments and trends in the context of the region.
4. Launch the Regional Platform of Environmental Law Lecturers in Latin America and the Caribbean.
5. Promote collaboration and networking among stakeholders to strengthen the effective implementation of environmental law.

General information

The conference will be hosted by the United Nations Environment Programme Latin America and the Caribbean Office, in Panama City, Panama. The sessions will be conducted in Spanish and in English and will be held in hybrid mode and broadcast to allow a broader number of participants.
